FACEBOOK GAMBLING

New Target for SLGA

Gambling on social media is a new fad for fundraising, but it's an activity the province says falls under specific laws and they want people to be aware of them.

One such facebook post highlights the current trend. A Melfort area woman hosted a poker tournament to help pay her bills.

Kayla Dipaolo, who lives on the James Smith Cree Nation, was looking to raise $700 for an overdue power bill. "I had a couple of friends who used [Facebook] to fundraise for their weddings and my mom had told me to give it a shot if it would help me in my situation," she said.

In addition to being four months pregnant, Dipaolo also has a six-year-old daughter and is collecting income assistance.

So far she paid down just over $200, raised through a Texas Hold 'Em Style tournament. As part of the tournament, Dipaolo sold cards on her page and revealed a winner through her Facebook feed. She said half the profits went back to the winner. Dipaolo said she was told by friends what she was doing was legal.

Dipaolo's story is not a unique one. Fundraisers of this kind are routinely found on Facebook.

David Morris, a spokesperson for the Saskatchewan Liquor and Gaming Authority (SLGA), said he is familiar with raffles, bingos or fundraisers conducted through social media.

"According to the Criminal Code of Canada all gaming activity must be licensed by the province in order to be legal and our role as SLGA is to regulate gaming and unlicensed gaming is a matter for the police to consider," he said.

Morris could not confirm if Dipaolo would face any immediate consequences for her fundraiser. He said SLGA will first notify those involved and let them know they are required to get a license, which Morris described as a very simple process.

"You can apply online and there is no cost if your prize is less than $2,500," he said.

Morris said the applicant could also be eligible to receive a grant from SLGA through the triple gaming grant equal to 25 per cent of the net proceeds made. But he was also quick to point out not every application will be approved.

"We look at those on a case by case basis. The Criminal Code does have some parameters as to what is eligible to be charitable in terms of gaming," he said.

Morris encouraged anyone with questions about gaming through social media to contact the SLGA office.

CIPI Cable Update

CIPI Cable is planning major changes to the channel lineup and packaging effective May 1, 2018. One change is the elimination of the HD Pack. Each of these channels will now only be available in its respective package. Another major change is the elimination of all the analog channels (Channels 2 to 40) which will be done in early April. This is to accommodate the new HD channels that will be added to the channel lineup. The new packaging and pricing is currently being worked on and should be completed in early March.

We are working on a policy on how to deal with cable subscribers with DCT boxes that will eventually become obsolete on our cable system. Shaw Broadcast will continue with its upgrade to MPEG-4 technology starting again in April to October 2018. There will be a lot of channels that will no longer work on any of the DCT boxes when these changes take place. If you are not sure what kind of Set-Top Box you have, call us at CIPI and we will let you know. If you have any questions or concerns, do not hesitate to call or come on down to the office and we will gladly assist you.

Hope everyone is having a great new year so far, Happy 2018 on behalf of the Northern Village of Beauval Staff and Council!

Water/Sewer

We continue to receive progress reports on the new Treatment Plant upgrades. Although it is roughly 4 weeks behind schedule, the contractor is working diligently to close that gap.

You may have noticed our maintenance crews also hard at work fixing 3 water leaks in the community. Thanks to their around the clock dedication to getting that fixed. Just a reminder when things like this happen it triggers a precautionary boil water advisory for approximately a week. If you notice discoloration of your water, run your taps for a few minutes and it should clear up. If it persists let maintenance know by calling 306-288-1003.

Taxes and Utility Accounts

Now that January has arrived, be on the lookout for the publication of outstanding tax and utility arrears accounts. A repayment policy will be mailed to those accounts with large overdue balances.

Social Development

A new steering committee is being formed to assist with idea generation for social development and to create and foster an environment of community leaders. Be on the lookout for a write up in the near future when the group introduces themselves to the community.

SUMA

Mayor and Council will be heading to the SUMA convention on Feb 4th - 7th. There will be no council meeting on Feb 5th and also no meeting on the 19th due to family day holiday. A special meeting date will be announced.

Tiniki!

-Nick Daigneault, Mayor

Your SaskPower bill is increasing again after the Saskatchewan government approved a 3.5 per cent rate increase, which will go into effect March 1. The hike approved by cabinet yesterday followed a 3.5 per cent increase in January 2017 and a 5 per cent increase in July 2016.

Originally, it had been proposed that the March price hike be 5 per cent but it was reduced amidst "unprecedented" concern from nearly 100 people to the Saskatchewan Rate Review panel. So, the increase was knocked back to 3.5 per cent and approved by cabinet on Wednesday, which the government estimates will result in about $4 more per month on the typical residential bill.

"Every year, SaskPower is keeping up with new records of power consumption, while working to keep power rates as low as possible," Dustin Duncan, minister responsible for SaskPower said in a news release. In its application for another rate hike, SaskPower outlined a need to cover "major" maintenance costs, a modernization of the power grid and a goal of reducing greenhouse gas emissions by 40% from the 2005 levels by 2030.
